WIRE AND IRON WORKS,
DETROIT, MICH.

Manufacturer of Vases, Iron Settees, Chairs, Cemetery Gates and Fences, Cemetery Vault Doors and Gates, Bank and Office Railing and Ornamental Wire and Iron Work.

EXPLANATION.

A—The earth receiver.
B—The reservoir for water, which is filled through the apertures as shown in the cut.
C—Tube connecting the earth receiver with the reservoir. This tube is packed with moss or sponge, through which the moisture is drawn up into the earth by capillary attraction. consists in the peculiar feature in the reservoir, which is in the shape of a funnel, and is wider at the top than once in ten or fifteen days, according to the size of the vase. The moisture being drawn upward by capillary attraction (as in nature), the ordinary vases, but remains open and porous through the entire season, and no excess of moisture, and plants thrive in them to perfection.

All our Vases have the Patent Reservoir Attachment inside, so they Are Self-Watering.

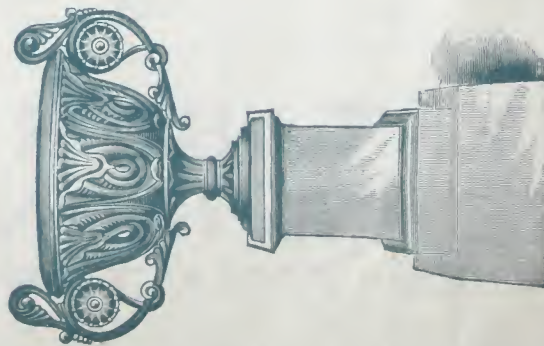

NOTE—Vases quoted as "painted and bronzed" are painted a dark color and relieved with bronze applied with a brush.
